

The Rev. Tom L. Day, D. Min. — Interim

Tom was born in Bristol and graduated from Bristol Tennessee High School in 1968. He attended The University of Tennessee with a music scholarship and graduated with a Bachelor of Science degree in Civil Engineering. He married his wife Kim in 1973. They have three children and eight grandchildren, all presently living in Texas.

Tom worked in the oil industry from 1974 to 1985, and during this time lived in the bayous of Louisiana, the deserts of the Persian Gulf, New Orleans, and Houston. In 1987 Tom and Kim and their three children moved to Sewanee, Tennessee to attend seminary where he received his Master of Divinity degree.

After graduation in 1990, Tom served as an Assist Rector for two years at a large church in Houston before becoming Rector of a Pastoral size church for ten years. Tom received a Doctor of Ministry degree from Seabury Seminary in 2001, and in 2002 became Rector of St. Christopher Episcopal Church in League City, Texas. He served this large Program sized church until retirement in 2016 when he and Kim moved back to Bristol. Tom has been serving in the Diocese of Southwest Virginia in several capacities for the last six years.

Kim began her bachelor's degree at the University of Tennessee in Liberal Arts and completed her degree at Nicoll's State University in Louisiana in 1977. After raising kids for 11 years, she taught art in the school system during their time in Sewanee, and then taught 3rd grade and Jr, High. Three years after seminary, Kim went back to school and received a degree in Interior Design. She had a very successful design career in Houston including running her own company for ten years.

Tom and Kim are avid fans of UT sports and have season tickets for the football season.
